

The Pesticide Industry's Playbook for Poisoning the Earth (The Intercept)

This report is in the tradition of in-depth investigative reporting that gave The Intercept its reputation for top-notch journalism. It will be too long and too detailed for some readers, but for those with a concern about the current global extinction of insects, and of bees in particular, it is a must-read, providing information on neonicotinoids reminiscent of past exposés on eco-toxicity of DDT (think Silent Spring), Agent Orange, tobacco and glyphosate.
