

Sausalito

And then there was that classic rich bitch screaming down at us from the deck of her yacht promising us all the evils of Moloch if, having just spent the day rescuing seabirds from the oilspill off Pacifica then around sunset rowing our rubber raft up to the Sausalito marina dock, we so much as touched her lilywhite hull.