

(2025 August 17) It's Free Because It's Yours: Interview with Peter Coyote

[Some of you will already have seen this video, which I sent out in another group mail. I'm sending it out again under this heading not only because it says a whole about where I come from politically and artistically (one category for me, in a way Peter refers to in the video - my environmental work is one expression of my art work), but because I think it has a lot to say about art in general and, in particular, the art scene some receiving this email had (and have) in mind in coming together in Bisbee.]
