

You Do Not Love Me

you do not love me she said but an image on your brain a fantasy of heated blood, breath, and vapors of desire stirred up by something in the air you thought you saw or thought to see between us – a projection of yourself in your own eyes.