

Of a Feather

In the cottonwood
a cat-eared owl

In the pear, two ravens at the fruit of our labor

Overhead, three killdeer circle and cry

the cry of those who have died unsatisfied, wanting

what they understood
they could never have