

Open Range Law

Chasing cattle out of the garden at dawn.
Above the gullies where they came in and went out

tilted posts and tangled wires draped
with grass and brush from last summer's rains.

All day taking out the old,
pounding in and stringing up the new.

Rains on time and no more incidents,
the garden should recover just fine.